Preliminary information gathered at the scene indicates the driver of a 1984 Pontiac was travelling east on Avenue I and entered the intersection at 30th Street East against what witnesses said was a red light. The driver of a 2001 Chevy Suburban was travelling south on 30th Street East and entered the intersection at Avenue I on a green light. The two vehicles collided in the intersection, causing the Pontiac to strike a traffic pole.

The driver of the Pontiac was transported to Antelope Valley Hospital where he succumbed to his injuries. The driver of the Suburban and her five passengers had complaints of pain. They were treated at the scene and released.
